THE FRONT COVER

This month's cover picture, a dramatic and effective shot of old Cutler Tower, was contributed by Donald E. Price, a senior from Columbus.

From the Editor's Desk . . .

ON PAGES 10 AND 11 of this issue of the Alumnus is an article dealing with something which quite probably may be marked in the future as a milestone in the progress of education at Ohio University, indeed, in the history of higher education in Ohio. The reference is to the new two-year program recently formally announced by the University.

The immediate and potential significance of this carefully-developed plan to provide two years of college experience and two years of vocational training and cultural studies for high school graduates who, because of financial or other reasons, would not attend college is attested by the "play" its announcement received in The Cleveland Plain Dealer, Sunday, March 12. The story was "big" enough to rate the No. 2 position in the Cleveland paper, in this age of spy hunts, cold wars, and flying saucers.

Let us examine briefly the significance of this "new venture in public higher education in Ohio," as the Plain Dealer termed it. Immediately, what does it mean? It means that more quite capable young men and women are going to have an opportunity to attend college—specifically, Ohio University. It means broader horizons for these young people, a better comprehension of the wideness of the world and their relationship to it. It means more varied and more rewarding vocational opportunities for thousands of young men and women.

Potentially, this new educational opportunity foretells a better-equipped citizenry, men and women in community life who will be more competent, more thoughtful leaders and more analytical, more exacting followers.

To Ohio University the significance of this new educational development is broadly twofold. First, but not necessarily most important, it means more students—and good students. Perhaps more desirable, this program is a manifestation of service by the University. It is a sincere and orderly attempt to spread wider the munificence of its cultural and educational opportunities. The dividends, tangible and intangible, which can accrue to the University from this new service are immeasurable.

A RECENT ANNOUNCEMENT from the Joint Committee of the National Education Association and the American Library Association was brought to our attention by University Librarian Frank N. Jones. Because we feel the message is almost universally pertinent to alumni—as teachers, school administrators, parents or as interested high school graduates—we bring you the gist of it.

The NEA and the ALA committee points up the fact that the scope and kinds of material, such as books, films, recordings, and maps, used in planning effective high school and elementary school curricula are constantly expanding, with school libraries having an increasingly vital function. Yet, the committee laments, school buildings are being built and old buildings are being remodeled without thought for the space and equipment which must be available for the essential operations of a good library. The committee has launched a public appeal for the inclusion of adequate library quarters in all new school buildings.

We think the committee has a worthy argument. It seems reasonable to suppose that roomy, well-equipped libraries at the high school and elementary school levels would result in a better student or pupil at those levels. Too, they would instill in him a fuller appreciation of the library as an essential part of the educational process, in the formal sense of that term, and as a life-long adjunct to a fuller life.

Toward a finished citizen

The College of Applied Science

By Dean E. J. Taylor

DEAN E. J. TAYLOR
Dean of Applied Science

The objective of the College of Applied Science is to mold the students who come to us into educated ladies and gentlemen, indoctrinated with uprightness and truth, with practical minds, with loyalty to country, able to think effectively, to communicate thoughts, to make relative judgments, and to discriminate among values. The college attempts to lay a groundwork of educational fundamentals upon which professional experience may build a finished citizen, and gives due consideration to the premise that healthy minds in healthy bodies are necessities for the fulfillment of the individual's mission.

The College of Applied Science has two major schools: Home Economics and Engineering. Grouping of the School of Home Economics with the School of Engineering in the College of Applied Science has proved to be a satisfactory organization. Each school attempts to give the student a professional outlook. The department of Industrial Arts is also part of the College.

The School of Home Economics offers a broad and extensive program in Home Economics and related fields leading to the Bachelor's degree, the Master's degree, or the two-year Associate in Arts diploma. During the first two years of college the emphasis is placed on general education and home and family living. A group of core courses in Foods and Nutrition, Clothing and Textiles, Home and Family Living, and Home Planning and Decoration are offered. These core courses may be elected by any student in the University, and it is noted that a growing portion of young women enrolled in the University elect one or more of these courses.

During the last two years an outstanding foods laboratory has been installed in the Agriculture and Household Arts Building. An excellent textile laboratory has also been installed. The Home Management House, located next to the President's Residence, provides an excellent laboratory in Home and Family Living. Each student spends at least eight weeks in residence at the Home Management House.

Many of the young women marry shortly after graduation. For those who do not, there is a steady demand for their services in many fields, such as: opportunities in day nurseries, children's homes, family welfare agencies, department stores, pattern companies, manufacturers of textiles, demonstrators for public utilities, food and clothing manufacturers, etc. There is a steady demand for young women trained in Foods and Nutrition. They find ready employment in restaurants, clubs, cafeterias, industrial plants, with food manufacturers, and they may also qualify for an internship in a hospital for training as a dietitian. There has been a steady demand for our graduates far in excess of our ability to supply them.

Engineering was first offered at Ohio University in 1892, when the late Professor A. A. Atkinson joined the faculty. He introduced electrical engineering, which has been offered in the University continuously since that time. In 1904 the late Professor Lewis J. Addicott introduced civil engineering. It has been offered continuously since that date. Industrial engineering was introduced in 1935, and mechanical engineering in 1946. For many years the School of Engineering was hampered by lack of proper laboratory facilities. This year we completed the first wing of a new Engineering Building. Modern hydraulics and heat power laboratories are located in the basement. The top floor has two excellent electrical engineering laboratories which are devoted to electronics. The electrical

PLANS FOR the first postwar all-campus Mothers' Weekend are shaping up, with the date for the affair when mothers of students will be guests of their sons and daughters and of the University set for May 12-13-14.

A full and varied program for the guests has been scheduled.

Shown in the picture at a Mothers' Weekend committee meeting are, seated l. to r.: Judy Cole, Ashley, program committee chairman; Kathryn Johnson, Nelsonville, and Al Gubitz, Jr., Athens, general chairmen; Stan Bier, Brooklyn, co-chairman of the housing committee. Standing: B. T. Grover, '19, assistant to the president; Rita Ellef, Cleveland; Marilyn Elder, Pleasantville; Dave Whitacre, East Cleveland; Hubert Frebault, Athens; Georgia Connor, Cleveland Heights; John Rauch, East Cleveland; Jim Algo, Athens; Donna Corey, Lakewood, co-chairman of the housing committee; Nancy Beringer, Steubenville; Annette Boyd, Cambridge. Committee workers not shown are Dick Milford, Rittman, and Lee Miller, Cuyahoga Falls.

FLORENCE BERMAN, Wheeling, W. Va., senior majoring in sociology, has been awarded a Kresge Foundation internship in Milwaukee. The internship is given to 10 men and 10 women in universities throughout the country for study of social work in larger cities.

THE OHIO University Mothers' Club of Greater Cleveland recently gave its second $200 donation to the Band Uniform Fund.

Names of all alumni donors to the Fund will appear on the programs at the Spring Concert, April 23.

AT A RECENT INFORMAL meeting in his home, President Baker discussed with 20 representatives of some 500 men students in the East Green temporary housing units future developments in the East Green, or lower campus, area. A similar meeting was held recently with presidents of the fraternities.

Future meetings of student groups and the administration will be held, as the latter continues to incorporate student viewpoint into projected over-all development of the University.

EFFECTIVE NEXT September, Reserve Officer Training Corps courses at the University will revert to an elective basis.

MOTHERS' WEEKEND COMMITTEE MEETS IN PRESIDENT'S OFFICE
... a full and varied program for Mom

Established in 1935, the R.O.T.C. program was on an elective basis until the fall of 1943, when enrollment became compulsory for all physically-fit male students between 14 and 24, except honorably discharged veterans and those classified 4-F.

THE LOCAL branch of the Southern Ohio Regional Council is seeking a $70,000 federal appropriation for research at the forest service center at the University. The group made its request through Senator Taft, who has asked the Senate Appropriations Committee for the money. A grant of $30,000 was made by Congress two years ago when the project was started.

The Proctor & Gamble Co. has sent the Alumni Office some information which the Alumnus is pleased to pass on to its readers. The company's market research department has several permanent positions opening in April and May for young women who are college graduates.

After a training period in Cincinnati, they would travel throughout the country conducting consumer research, with no saleswork or soliciting involved. The applicants should be single, age 22-26, able to do simple arithmetic, and have a driver's license. If interested, write to Miss Virginia Weiss, Proctor & Gamble, Gwynne Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Proctor and Gamble Distributing Co. is also trying to reach men alumni in the 28-32 age group who might be interested in employment opportunities in selling. For further information, write to Mr. C. G. Schwenkmeyer, of the above address.

THE DIRECTOR OF the Ohio State University School of Home Economics, Dr. Gladys Branegan, and 12 of her staff members were recent campus guests.

The visitors came especially to see the University's new Home Economics facilities. Within the past year, a new foods laboratory with a nine-unit kitchen, a foods and equipment demonstration laboratory, a new Home Management House kitchen, and a workshop for student teachers have been added in the School of Home Economics.

LIBRARIAN Frank N. Jones has announced several projected developments in the Edwin Watts Chubb Library. He has named three principal objectives: (1) a rearrangement of the books in the building, with adequate "open" shelves for the more popular and most used titles, and at least three stack levels freely accessible to all users; (2) additional seating to guarantee eventually from 800 to 1,000 seats in eight or ten rooms; (3) systematic improvement of lighting.

The basis of Librarian Jones' planning is his belief that "the books belong to the students . . ." and that ". . . students and the books should get together more often." His program provides for "as little supervision (by librarians) as possible" and a centralized checkout system.

Mr. Jones contends that when books are easily accessible to students, a college library will function in its proper place—"at the hub of the academic wheel."

ONE HUNDRED AND eighty-seven University College students were honored at the Dean's List reception last month.

President Baker addressed the group, which included students from the University's branches at Portsmouth, Zanesville, and Chillicothe. The president and other administrative officers sponsor these receptions in honor of those freshmen who attain a 3.0 or better for their semester's work.

From the President's Office

The Student Council, faculty, and administration at Ohio University are sponsoring a weekend for mothers, May 12, 13, and 14. Great bustle and preparations are going on for this celebration, and a large number of guests are expected. From the advanced interest in this program, it appears that Athens will have more visiting mothers on these three days than ever before on a similar weekend in past years. Kathryn Johnson and Albert C. Gubitz, Jr., are the co-chairmen for the entire program.

Everyone here at the University is delighted with these plans, because we want to welcome parents of students, especially mothers, and are anxious to have them know Ohio University as it is today, the way students live and play, and their great opportunities while here. One student said to me not long ago, "Every time I go home, I am surprised at how little my friends and even alumni with whom I talk know of our University today." This did not surprise me greatly, because I have heard identical remarks both from students and faculty members.

The program, as planned, will leave our guests in a breathless whirl when the weekend is past. The students are anxious to give their visitors a real taste of college life. Visitors will attend classes (if they care to), will go on personally-conducted tours of the campus, and will participate in more individual parties than it seems possible to arrange for one short weekend. In addition to these small family parties, a formal program has been arranged as follows: Friday evening, May 12, Torch Sing; Saturday, May 13, Tour of the Campus, Baseball Game (Ohio University vs. Miami University), Ohio Relays, Band Concert, Art Exhibit, Tea; in the evening there will be a "May Sing" in which sorority and dormitory glee clubs will serenade the mothers.

The tour of the campus will show "the new" Ohio University so far as buildings are concerned. Visitors will have a chance to inspect everything from Bryan Hall, the new women's living hall, and the new Engineering Science Building, classrooms and laboratories, to the recently completed Student Health Center. Also, old timers will be much interested in the renovation of Cutler Hall, Ewing Hall, and the Music Building. Incidentally, the Student Health Building in recent weeks has had its first real test in the flu epidemic. Last year when we had no such epidemic, there were over 37,000 separate visits to our Health Building which was then located in inadequate quarters. We hope every mother who possibly can will come to Athens for this special weekend. Housing facilities, however, in Athens are limited; at the present time, the committee has room for eight hundred guests. Even if you decide to come at the last minute, please write or telegraph so we will have some warning and can make the best possible living arrangements for you. Cutler Hall will be the registration and information center. We are all looking forward with great anticipation to this weekend for mothers.

FIRST UNITED STATES showing of a new collection of water colors by Leonard Brooks, noted Canadian artist, was held recently in the Edwin Watts Chubb Library gallery. Mr. Brooks was in residence at the University during the two-weeks exhibit and lectured on new painting techniques in Mexican Art and on water color painting. Following the local showing, the collection went to Kenyon College and then to Boston, Mass.

With the Faculty

■ President Baker has been elected to the board of directors of The Columbia Gas System, Inc. Dr. Baker is also a director of the National Blank Book Co., Holyoke, Mass., and a trustee of Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa., his alma mater. He is the author of several books, including "Directors and Their Functions," published in 1945.

■ Clarence H. White, Jr., visiting lecturer in photography, was a judge in the news photo contest held in conjunction with the Ohio Associated Press Editors meeting in Columbus last month. Mr. White also gave an address at the meeting, relating his experiences as a photographer at the Bikini A-bomb tests.

■ Several faculty members will tour Ohio this spring, meeting seniors in their schools during the day, and parents and students in the evening. Scheduled for these visits are Dr. Einar A. Hansen, Dr. Gaije B. Paulsen, Vincent Jukes, Fred Picard, Dr. L. C. Staats, Dr. E. T. Hellebrandt, and Carl T. Nessley.

■ Dr. John A. Hess, chairman of the German Department, has been renamed associate editor of The German Quarterly, a post he has held since 1945.

■ Dr. H. E. Benz, professor of education, has been appointed chairman of a committee of the American Educational Research Association preparing a report on current research in the teaching of mathematics and science. The report will be issued in October, 1951.

■ Prof. George Starr Lasher, director of the School of Journalism, was one of two judges in the Outdoor Writers of Ohio competition.

■ Dean Maurel Hunkins and John Terlescki, assistant to the dean, attended the National Association of Deans and Advisers of Men Conference at Williamsburg, Va. last month. Dean Hunkins was a member of a panel of three deans leading a discussion on counseling.

■ Dean of Women Leona Wise Felsted was one of seven Ohio educators participating in the national convention of the Council of Guidance and Personnel Associations in Atlantic City recently. Dean Felsted was one of six participants in a discussion of "Leadership Training for Students" and was chairman of the Meals and Hospitality Committee for Council Day. She is on a committee studying unification of counseling and guidance associations and the American Council on Education Committee, both of which met at the convention. She was accompanied to the convention by Mrs. Margaret G. Twyman, assistant dean of women.

■ A two-act folk opera will be presented by the Faculty Wives Club May 10 in Alumni Memorial Auditorium as a Student Center Fund benefit. Mrs. Maurel Hunkins will direct the production, for which she wrote the dialogue, the song, "I'm Just a Pore Moonshiner's Daughter," and arranged the music for the 13 other folk songs included in the opera. Mrs. John C. Baker is in charge of production.

■ Coach Carroll C. Widdoes has been appointed to the NCAA Rules Committee in District 4. Other members of the committee are Tuss McLaughery, Dartmouth; Elwood Geiges, Temple; Wallace Wade, Duke; Ernest Quigley, Kansas; Matty Bell, Southern Methodist; Lon Stiner, Oregon State, and E. L. Romney, Utah State.

ONE OF THE MOST ambitious theatrical productions ever attempted at the University was presented last month, and it awed by its splendor and richness even the more sophisticated of its viewers. The popular "Song of Norway," based on the life and music of Edvard Grieg, was truly a major production. Although sponsored by the School of Dramatic Art and Speech, it called upon the entire campus for its cast of more than 60, production staff of nine faculty members and 50 students, and 23-piece orchestra.

THE UNIVERSITY'S B'NAI B'rith Hillel Foundation, Inc., has announced the purchase of the Fleck residence at 97 University Terrace. Purchase price was quoted as $22,000. Hillel, now located at 17 W. Union St., hopes to occupy its new home by the end of May.

DR. ERNST von DOHNANYI, internationally renowned composer-pianist-conductor, completed in April his return engagement as the University's guest professor. Dr. von Dohnanyi was guest professor for several weeks in 1948. Both engagements were sponsored by the School of Music and the Ohio University Fund, Inc.

The campus schedule of the noted musician, onetime director of the Hungarian Academy of Music and conductor of the Budapest Philharmonic, included a public recital, convocation recital, lecture-recitals, master piano classes, and rehearsals with the University orchestra, chorus, and band.

THE UNIVERSITY'S Pershing Rifles participated in the University of Illinois Invitational Drill and Rifle Meet recently and came home with a second, a third, and two sixth places in the several events.

The local contingent placed second and sixth in the individual drill and third in the platoon drill. The rifle team placed sixth in a field of 16 in the shooting event.

The Air R.O.T.C. rifle team has been selected to represent the Ninth Air Force in the National R.O.T.C. Intercollegiate matches.

WITH THE approval of two new groups by the Campus Affairs Committee, the number of organizations now on campus is 147. Latest additions are Alpha Delta Omega a local social fraternity, and the Ohio University Society of Mechanical Engineers, a departmental club.

Dr. Green Is Faculty Lecturer

"Since the last war, the scientist has taken first place in the thinking of the American public," declared Dr. D. B. Green in the third of the current Faculty Lecture series. But he pointed out that the public becomes aware of scientific advances only as the engineer embodies them in machines or manufacturing processes.

The Faculty Lectures, begun in 1945, are sponsored by the University to bring to faculty, students, and townspeople the scholarly work of its faculty and to give public recognition to that work.

Dr. Green, speaking on the subject "Electrons to Television," declared: "Not only does the engineer concern himself with promoting man's physical welfare by applying the findings of science to machines and processes, but at the same time he provides the scientist himself with tools to further explore the unknown. The Professor Green, chairman of the Department of Electrical Engineering, joined its staff in 1925. Under his direction, this department has experienced a steady growth in both enrollment and offerings. For many years he has served Ohio University as a consultant in radio and sound engineering problems and has helped pioneer in the development of the campus radio stations.

At the present time, he is the chief engineer of the newly-installed FM station and a member of the radio executive committee. Dr. Green is the author of research articles in acoustics and electrical communications and is an active member of several professional organizations and honorary societies.

National Cash Register President Is Campus Visitor

"The ability to get along with other people is the number one requirement for success in any business," Stanley C. Allyn, president of the National Cash Register Co., told Ohio University students in a recent visit to the campus.

The speaker was sponsored jointly by Alpha Omicron, professional commerce fraternity, and the University administration. For his Ewing Auditorium address, Mr. Allyn chose the topic, "Getting Ready for the Job Ahead." He was accompanied to the campus by Robert S. Oelman, National Cash Register vice president.

Mr. Allyn said "training in good human relations" is one of the greatest values of college. The speaker, a director of several business organizations, said the "price of success is high, demanding hard work and personal sacrifice which the average person is not willing to pay." Mr. Allyn joined National Cash Register in 1913 as a $20-a-week clerk following his graduation from the University of Wisconsin.

He called the college degree an "advantage," but warned his audience, made up mostly of seniors, that a college degree is not "a passport to success." He cautioned the near-graduates to select carefully, if they decide to join a manufacturing business, the firm for which they want to work.

Suggesting that companies should be required to fill out "some sort of an application blank" for the prospective employee, he listed five criteria by which a company might be judged as desirable or not from the prospective employee's standpoint. (1) attitude toward research and engineering, (2) employee relations, (3) popularity of its product, (4) financial policy, and (5) ability to increase its earning power over the years.

On the Alumni Front

Although not yet free to give full time to his new duties as assistant alumni secretary, Martin L. Hecht, '46, has made excellent progress in one of his special responsibilities, that of servicing Ohio University's local alumni clubs and in assisting in the reactivation of dormant groups and the organization of new ones.

"Marty" has contacted key men and women in scores of Ohio communities and has found them cordially cooperative in the matter of establishing new outposts. The coming year will find him farther afield, geographically, in this important work of bringing the university and its alumni closer together.

Reports of meetings in a number of the organized centers, as well as dates of future events, will be found in succeeding paragraphs. Definite announcements cannot yet be made by some clubs, but they may be expected soon.

Dayton

Unintentionally omitted from previous resumés of organized alumni activities was the annual "Christmas Dinner" of the Dayton chapter held December 17, at the South Park Methodist Church.

The party, one of five social events on the chapter's calendar for 1949-50, was largely attended and thoroughly enjoyed. The food was prepared by a committee of the members.

Greetings from the campus were brought to the group by Alumni Secretary Clark Williams, who is now convinced that the unusually enthusiastic reports of past Christmas parties were not, and could not be, exaggerated.

C. Everett Weimer, Jr., '41, is president of the Gem City chapter. William R. Gray, '41, is vice president and program director, while Jane McElfresh Kinney, '42, holds the secretarial post.

Akron Women

Dr. Paul E. Belcher, '22, cashier, vice president, and general counsel of Akron's First National Bank, was the speaker at the January meeting of the Akron Association of Ohio University Women, held at the home of Ruth Ault Smith, '16, 2-yr., in Cuyahoga Falls.

On February 4, Bruce R. Blake, '40, chief announcer for Radio Station

WHKK, addressed the Akron alumnae on matters pertaining to radio programs and broadcasting. Ethel Anderson Simon, '38, 2-yr., Akron, was the hostess for this meeting.

Alice Edwards Wright, '27, discussed "Ceramics—Past and Present" at the March 4 meeting, for which Nadine Michael Jennings, '24, was the hostess at her Akron home.

REUNION IN JUNE

Special invitations are being extended to the members of nine classes to return to the campus for reunions at Commencement time, June 10 and 11. They are the Classes of 1900 (Golden Anniversary), 1905, 1910, 1915, 1920, 1925 (Silver Anniversary), 1930, 1935, and 1940.

All alumni, of whatever class, are of course cordially welcome, but because of limited facilities, housing and dining accommodations can be guaranteed only to members and families of the reunion classes. Members of the special classes total well over 1,500 and if they return in the numbers expected all available space in dormitory rooms and dining halls will be required for them.

Rooms in private homes will be solicited for non-reunioners and will be made available on a "first come," or rather first request, basis.

The largest graduating class in Ohio University history—approximately 900 members—will receive degrees in outdoor exercises to be held Sunday afternoon, June 11. The commencement address will be given by a nationally-known speaker. The baccalaureate address, Sunday morning, will be given by Dr. D. Elton Trueblood, for ten years professor of philosophy and chaplain at Stanford University and now professor of philosophy at Earlham College. Dr. Trueblood is widely known for the many books of his authorship.

The annual golf tournament, class reunion luncheons, the supper under the Elms, and other commencement affairs will be events of June 10.

The program in detail will appear in the May "Alumnus."

The ballroom of the Women's City Club in the Rubber City was the scene of the club's annual Ohio University Day Luncheon. The hostess for the event was Ida Mae Walthour Blundell, '24, 2-yr. The special guest and speaker was Dr. Leona Wise Felsted, the University's new dean of women, who was making her first "official" visit to an alumni group. Mrs. Felsted was accompanied by Martin L. Hecht, '46, who, as the recently-appointed assistant alumni secretary, paid his initial visit to this fine group.

Drusilla Riley, an Ohio U. junior and current holder of the club's annual scholarship, was present to meet the members and to tell of her activities on the campus.

Pearl Woodward Smith, '25, is the 1949-50 president of the Akron Association of Ohio University Women. The secretary is Susan Ault Smith.

Cleveland Bobcats

Carroll Widdoes, director of athletics and head football coach, and William J. Trautwein, associate director of athletics, were given a cordial welcome by the Cleveland Bobcats at a dinner at the Cleveland Athletic Club on January 17. The subject of the evening's discussions—if you can't guess—was "Athletics at Ohio University."

The Bobcats gathered next at the C.A.C. on February 16 to enjoy a smoker and some campus movies.

On April 20, the Clevelanders will have as guests from the campus C. N. Mackinnon, veteran professor of English, and James E. Snyder, '41, head basketball coach.

Sherman W. Peters, '41, is head man of the Bobcats this year. The secretary is William Morison, '48.

Cleveland Women

Meeting February 11 at their regular luncheon spot, Higbee's Lounge, members of the Ohio University Women's Club of Cleveland enjoyed an informal tea and musicale, followed by a Spring Fashion Show put on by the Higbee Co.

On March 11, following a luncheon at Higbee's, a representative of the Cleveland Better Business Bureau addressed the club on the subject, "To Buy or Not to Buy?"

The Standard Oil Company's sound movie in color, "Let's Explore Ohio," will be the feature of the luncheon program on April 22.

Bette Parge Gober, '41, and Eleanor Stoup Benson, '27, are the president and secretary, respectively, of the Cleveland women's organization.

Cleveland Men and Women

Members of both the men's and women's clubs joined forces in welcoming Ohio University's new dean of the College of Education, Dr. George J. Kabat, at a dinner and reception at the University Club on March 16.

Dean Kabat was an able pinch hitter for President John C. Baker whose annual visit to this largest Ohio U. alumni center in the state, and nation, had to be cancelled because of illness. The president had been scheduled to discuss "Higher Education and The Future."

The toastmaster for the dinner of the combined Cleveland groups was Warren E. Hacker, '37.

Youngstown Women

"Fun With Games" was the theme for the January 28 meeting of the Ohio University Women's Club of Youngstown. "Mixers" and contests in which the group was divided into "Green" and "White" teams composed the program prepared by Chairman Jane Saunders, '43, and her committee.

Each of the 45 members present brought a "white elephant" or some handmade article which was auctioned off as a means of augmenting the club's Scholarship Fund. Nelle Copeland Cooley, '15, was a guest from Warren.

The club's Guest Day will be held April 29 with Dean Leona W. Felsted as guest speaker. Mrs. J. C. Eschliman will chairman the Guest Day committee.

The president and secretary, respectively, of the 1949-50 corps of officers are Isabel Bacon, '19, and Florence Liebman, '22.

Stark County

Preferring one general organization composed of both men and women, rather than an alumnae club and a Bobcat Club, the Ohioans of Canton and vicinity have formed a Stark County chapter with officers as follows: President, Dr. George A. DeStefano, '36; vice president, Clarence J. Rich, '39; and secretary-treasurer, Daniel A. Risaliti, '41.

The new officers met with Coach Carroll Widdoes and Associate Athletic Director Trautwein in Canton on January 18 and gave assurance that a strong committee on athletics would be appointed to assist in bringing desirable high school athletes to the attention of the proper authorities.

DISTRICT D.A.R. POST GOES TO MRS. LOCHARY

MRS. PATRICK LOCHARY

Mrs. Patrick Lochary (Clara Henry, '19, 2-yr.), active in D.A.R. circles for many years as a regent and member of the Return Jonathan Meigs Chapter in Pomeroy and currently state chairman of manuals, has been elected Southeast District director of the Ohio Society of The Daughters of The American Revolution.

Mrs. Lochary is a former supervisor of music in the Pomeroy schools. Her husband is associated with the post office in the Ohio River city. Their older son, James, is a sophomore at Ohio University, while their younger son, Charles, will complete his high school work this spring.

CHESTER E. EDGAR, '21, 2-yr., was named to the six-man committee announced by the Builders Exchange of Columbus to supervise the 1950 Home Show at the Horticulture and Agriculture Building, State Fairgrounds, April 23-28. Mr. Edgar is estimating engineer for the Electric Power Equipment Co., Columbus. His wife is the former Rachael Powell, '22x.

Club of Youngstown is greatly interested in the welfare of the university and is a vital force in promoting good public relations in the Mahoning County area.

The club makes an annual contribution to the Ohio University Fund, Inc., and at a dinner meeting at "Ravers" on February 15 it had as its guest, O.U.'s director of public relations, A. C. Gubitz, and the husbands of the members. Ohio University movies were shown.

Mrs. George England is president, and Mrs. Glenn D. Sisk, secretary, of the club.

Lakewood Mothers

Members of the Ohio University Mother's Club of Lakewood have established an emergency loan fund at the University from which an undergraduate hailing from Lakewood, Rocky River, and Bay Village and finding himself in need of a small loan may make a borrowing for a 30-day period. A fee of 25c is charged for each loan.

Future Dates

President John C. Baker, B. T. Grover, '19, Martin L. Hecht, '46, and Clark E. Williams, '21, will go from the campus on April 12 to meet with Licking County Ohioans for a reorganization dinner at the Granville Inn, in Granville. Homer W. Dupler, '24, and Judge Charles B. Holsberry, '31x, are among the members of the old "Moundbuilders" chapter who are active in the reorganization movement.

On April 13, Dean A. H. Armbruster, of the College of Commerce, will be the guest of the Cincinnati Bobcats at a dinner at Hotel Sinton.

Reactivation of the Meigs County alumni chapter is expected at a dinner to be held at the Federated Church in Pomeroy on April 25. President Baker is to be the speaker. Supt. W. A. Smith, '29, of the Pomeroy schools, is head of the committee on arrangements.

Another reorganization of a previously active group will take place in Mansfield on April 26 at a dinner to be attended by President Baker and other guests from the University. Robert O. Richards, '29, is giving leadership to the reorganization committee.

April 28 will find the Bobcat Club of Akron in session with President Baker as the guest of honor.

The annual dinner meeting of the Eastern Ohio chapter, at Steubenville, is booked for May 5. A program will be presented by Silvia Lakomska and Tad Danielewski, two talented Polish students now attending Ohio University.

Dean Felsted will be the principal Guest Day guest of the Ohio University Women's Club of Cleveland at this organization's final meeting of the year on May 21.

The Bobcat Sports Review

By VIC SHEROW, '29

WITH THE COMING of "All Fool's Day" or April Fool's Day, the Ohio University 1950 spring sports program was launched with the baseball team seeing first action, closely followed by the golfers, as both squads embarked on their annual spring vacation training trips through the southern states.

Track and tennis squads went into action after the vacation period ended on April 12, and for the next six or seven weeks Bobcat teams will be in action nearly every weekday until the end of May.

Seventy-three events are listed for the four squads, including the annual Mid-American Conference championships in track, tennis and golf, to be staged May 26 and 27 at Miami University. In addition, the golfers will participate in the Ohio Intercollegiate meet at Columbus and the tracksters are scheduled to compete in the All-Ohio championships at Ohio Wesleyan on June 10. The 73 contests include two freshman track meets.

A SQUAD OF CLOSE to 60 football prospects are working out daily under the direction of Coach Carroll C. Widdoes and his staff in their annual spring shake-down preparatory to the tough 10-game schedule facing the Bobcat gridders next fall. The spring practice will be concluded with the annual intra-squad regulation game in the Ohio Stadium on Saturday, April 22.

COACH BOB WREN'S baseballers broke the ice on the spring sports season when they crossed bats with Morris Harvey at Charleston, W. Va., in an added game to the southern trip which will see the Bobcats in action eight times in a nine-day period.

The regular season, of 22 games, will open on the home field April 13 with Wisconsin as opponent. In addition to the 10 games with other conference opponents, the Bobcats will clash with Purdue and Ohio State of the Big Ten, Notre Dame, West Virginia, Kent State, Marietta, Marshall, Xavier and Muskingum.

Coach Wren looks to his veterans from last year for most of the action this year but there are several sophomores who probably will be used frequently as the season progresses as graduation will cut quite a gap in the current squad in June.

COACH KERMIT BLOSSER'S varsity golfers followed the baseballers south but found their paths converging for only one day, April 6, when both squads competed against Elon College.

First match of the regular season will be April 15 against Ohio State at Columbus.

Coach Blosser has three veterans from last year—Dow Finsterwald, Hubert Selz and Ed Kocinski—as the core of his team, with Roger Pedigo, former Athens boy, expected to complete the top four. Several strong prospects exist among other members of the squad, which has been holding its pre-season practice on the Logan Country Club course. All home matches will be played over the Athens Country Club links.

BIGGEST PROBLEM in the spring sports program probably is that facing Tennis Coach Al Nellis who has only one veteran from last year back in uniform, and only a fair crop of prospects fighting for the other team berths. The squad faces a schedule of 10 matches in addition to the conference championships, and at the moment prospects probably are the dimmest in any of the spring sports.

COACH JIM JOHNSON'S track men have been getting in practice licks whenever weather conditions permitted and are reported rounding into good shape for their opener in a triangular meet here April 15 with Akron and Marshall. Six other dual meets are listed, followed with the Mid-American and All-Ohio championship meets.

Coach Johnson has several veterans back, among them Ray Johnston and John Hesketh, both of whom were outstanding during the 1949 season, and from whom even greater developments are anticipated this year.

OMITTED IN THE identification lines under the picture of the Bobcat swimming team in the March Alumnus was the name of Bill Earley. In the picture, Bill was third from the left in the front row.

CONTRIBUTORS TO THE Ohio University Fund, Inc., who wish to support the new athletic scholarship program should specify that their contributions are to go to the Special Scholarship Project.

The Special Scholarship Project has been established and given an account in the Ohio University Fund to provide tuition scholarships for scholastically-able high school athletes who rank in the upper half of their senior class. The project also requires that applicants must show evidence of financial need. Final approval of applications submitted by the director of athletics must be given by the University's scholarships committee.

Director of Athletics Carroll C. Widdoes states that the Special Scholarship Project should have a minimum of $5,000 in its account at the end of the current school year in order to assure continuity of scholarships granted in the next few months. Initial grants to the scholar-athletes are for one year and cover the basic semester fee ($45) for each semester. No money will be paid directly to the student.

To be eligible to retain his athletic scholarship in his sophomore year, the recipient must complete his freshman year with a minimum grade average of 2.0 and a minimum of 25 credit hours. Similar provisions cover his application for renewal in his junior and senior years.

All contributions for the athletic scholarship program should be made directly to the Ohio University Fund (checks should be made payable to The Ohio University Fund, Inc.) and specified "for the Special Scholarship Project." Contributions to the Fund are deductible, within provisions of the law, on income tax returns.

Faculty Sketches

By BOB McCREANOR, '48

Prof. William H. Fenzel, '18, of Commerce, believes a teacher's first duty is "to see to it that his students acquire knowledge." But the teaching career of Bill Fenzel makes obvious another duty implied in college teaching—an active interest in the extra-curricular life of students.

Throughout his 32 years as a teacher at Ohio University, Professor Fenzel has maintained an active, helpful interest in extra-curricular life at the University. He has given generously of his time and talents in advising and counseling undergraduate organizations and in work with faculty committees having to do with students' extra-curricular activities.

Currently, he is a member of the Faculty Fraternity Affairs Council, the Student Center Executive Committee, and is Chairman of the Committee on Entertainment Space for the projected $1,000,000 Student Center. He is also a member of the University College Committee. He is a member of the American Association of University Professors and the American Association of University Instructors in Accounting.

Ohio University is home to Bill Fenzel, a native of Athens. He was graduated from the University in 1918 and joined its faculty the same year. Prior to receiving his degree, he was granted, in 1915, a two-year diploma in Commerce, followed by a B.C.S. from New York University in 1917. He studied at the University of Chicago in the summer of 1919.

Always active in the affairs of the Alumni Association, he has been its treasurer since 1922.

With "little time for outside interests," Professor Fenzel spends such time as he can find for it in travel. He names architecture as a "hobby," stemming from an early ambition, and from that hobby have come plans for several buildings.

Before he retires, fifty-five Bill Fenzel hopes to round out almost a half century in teaching. He declines to phrase a philosophy of teaching, especially in terms of techniques and methods, because, as he sees it, "a teacher must adapt his techniques, his approach, and his methods to fit the needs of individual classes and individual students."

... an implied duty

In the broad sense, his philosophy is easily discernible: the college teacher's association with the student is primarily a classroom one, but is made more complete when it transcends the classroom, when it is carried into the student's extra-curricular life.

COLLEGE OF APPLIED SCIENCE

power laboratory remains on the ground floor of Science Hall. During the past year, through the generosity of the General Electric Company we have been able to refurbish that laboratory with new equipment.

In the summer of 1947 a temporary war surplus building was erected on Richland Avenue just across South bridge. This building is still being utilized by the Engineering School for the departments of Engineering Drawing and Civil Engineering. The building contains soil mechanics, materials testing, and photogrammetry laboratories, as well as three drafting rooms. This building will be used until the completion of the second wing of the new Engineering Building.

We believe that the quality of instruction in our Engineering School is equal to that offered in any school of engineering. The size of our school enables us more nearly to reach the ideal school of "a student and Mark Hopkins on a log". Our school will be inspected by the Engineers

Council for Professional Development in the fall of 1950. We anticipate that it will be fully accredited by that organization.

It is interesting to note that at the last two examinations in Architectural Engineering given by the State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers an Ohio University graduate placed first.

Not all Ohio University students will be able to equal the magnificent gift of Mr. John Galbreath to his alma mater. But we believe that any student can help us materially in a more modest manner. Within the past two weeks a young man who received his Bachelor of Science in Electrical Engineering degree in June, 1949, brought four high school seniors to Ohio University to visit the campus for one day. He wrote us prior to bringing the young men to the campus, and arrangements were made for them to visit our new Engineering Building, to attend a basketball game, and to have lunch at one of the fraternity houses. Sending us good students can easily be your first contribution to Ohio University.

We have a policy of revising our curriculum yearly. Your suggestions concerning subjects that you believe should be added to or dropped from the curriculum will receive our earnest attention. The College of Applied Science is your school. Your constructive criticisms and suggestions are always welcome.

FACULTY LECTURE

Dr. Green, chairman of the Department of Electrical Engineering, placed the dreamer with the scientist and the engineer as a contributor to man's material progress. The speaker declared that if America can retain the freedom of thought and action of these three, "television will not be the last miracle of our modern age."

The next Faculty Lecture will be given May 4 in Chemistry Auditorium at 8 p.m. The speaker will be Dr. Claude E. Kantner, director of the School of Dramatic Art and Speech and a nationally-known authority in speech correction. His topic will be "Speech and Education."

Ohio University Announces New Two-Year Study Program

By Dr. George W. Starcher, '26
Dean of the University College

Ohio University recently announced a two-year college program that The Cleveland Plain Dealer aptly termed "a new venture in public higher education in Ohio." Incorporating a balanced program of cultural and vocational studies, the two-year terminal program has received wide acclaim as a significant step in American college training.

The program is designed for the benefit of those high school students who are unable or who do not desire to take the four years of college work leading to a degree. It has been under development since 1946 and was formally set up last fall. While "new," it has been thoroughly tested in terms of the need for it and what it can do to meet that need. Currently, 212 students are enrolled in the two-year program, which is administered by the University College. Twenty-nine two-year graduates are scheduled to receive their diplomas at the June Commencement. An Associate in Arts diploma is conferred on the two-year students when they complete the required 62 credit hours, with 124 grade points.

Although designed with the needs of Southeastern Ohio—Ohio University's immediate area of service—in mind, the two-year program is, of course, open to any student. Southeastern Ohio high school administrators and teachers have repeatedly pointed out, and surveys and studies substantiate their statements, that the percentage of high school graduates from the area who go to college is considerably smaller than the state and national figures. One Southeastern Ohio high school superintendent, whose school graduates more than 100 each year, stated that no more than 10 percent of his school's graduates enroll in college.

University and high school administrators give considerable weight to the opinion that a psychological factor is involved in the problem of not enough Southeastern Ohio high school graduates attending college. It is believed that many high school graduates, in Southeastern Ohio and elsewhere, of definite ability to succeed in college, mistakenly think they are not able to pursue successfully the four-year college program. Many other capable high school graduates, of course, do not undertake the complete college program for financial reasons.

President John C. Baker and other administrators at the University emphasize that the new college is not for those students who can't do college work; they underscore the fact that the two-year program is college work. Indeed, on the basis of our experience with two-year programs since 1946, it is anticipated that many students will stay on to complete the four years and earn their baccalaureate degree.

Ohio University's two-year program, which draws upon all the facilities of the University, is much broader in its scope than the typical junior college, which often offers only two years of a liberal arts college program. Besides the university-level cultural subjects which the two-year program offers, it gives more attention to the vocational needs and objectives of its students than do many of the junior colleges.

Students in the two-year program are regular Ohio University students in every sense of the term. Enrollees in the new program are eligible for all University scholarships and other awards. They are eligible to participate in all extra-curricular activities, including membership in the social fraternities and sororities and honor societies. They may participate in intramural and varsity athletics. Briefly, they are Ohio University undergraduates, with all the rights, privileges, and responsibilities accorded any other undergraduate.

All students in the two-year program take certain basic courses in English, speech, and physical welfare. The various vocational objectives of the two-year students obviously necessitate programs which include certain courses that are designated "required" for a particular vocational objective. But there is room in each program for the student to elect courses, which he is prepared to take, in any school or college in the University.

Students are now pursuing two-year programs in general business, retailing, secretarial studies, education (cadet teacher program leading to provisional certificates), agriculture, forestry, architecture, art, design, painting, dramatics, speech, photography, physical education, and radio. In this broad offering are to be found opportunities for occupational preparation meeting the requirements of most high school graduates who see the four-year college degree programs as perhaps too demanding of time and money.

No narrow definition of the scope of two-year programs is possible. There are, for all practical purposes, no pre-determined limitations as to how many different patterns of courses might be developed to meet the needs of two-year students. The University plans to develop as many different programs as are needed to fit the aptitudes, vocational plans, and ambitions of the applicants, within the limits of available facilities. Each student's program of courses will be "tailor-made" to fit his particular needs and desires. One example of the two-year program's ability to meet individual needs and desires is to be seen in the following:

A young minister's wife requested courses under the two-year program which would enable her better to fulfill her duties as a wife and mother, in particular, as the wife of a minister. She did not go to college following her graduation from high school, despite the fact that she had shown exceptional ability as a high school student and had won college scholarships in her senior year.

Here was a challenge for the two-year program. Here was a "vocational objective" that was, to say the least, unusual. After careful consultation, a two-year course of study suited to the needs of this student was planned. Her program emphasizes courses having to do with home making and family living, but it includes courses in the humanities, the arts, and the sciences.

As pointed out earlier, the program of each student, regardless of his vocational and educational objective, includes basic courses in English,

PHOTOGRAPHY

... Joseph W. Karbonic, of Lakewood

Typewriting, Shorthand, Business Letter Writing, Elementary Accounting, and such advanced courses as are elected by the student.

A student majoring in art may select as general education courses Introduction to Fine Arts and courses in the social and other sciences. His career courses may be in Design, Drawing, Architecture, Ceramics, and Sculpture.

In agriculture the two-year student may select general education courses in Botany, Sociology, and American Democracy. His career preparation includes courses in General Agriculture, Forestry, Vegetable Gardening, Fruit Gardening, Landscape Gardening, Soils and Fertilizers, Types and Breeds of Farm Animals, and Farm Management.

These sample curricula are not intended to suggest that the educational or training possibilities under the University's new two-year program are limited. On the contrary, it should be re-emphasized that the program is so constructed that it is able to meet the individual requirements of the students.

It is carefully designed to fulfill its primary purpose: namely, to bring to college more of the thousands of able young men and women who are graduated from high schools each year. They are entitled to at least a minimum of two years work at the college level and in the college environment.

speech, and physical welfare. But from there, the kinds of courses differ according to the needs and desires of each student. For example, a student pursuing an industrial arts major may include in his program, as general education courses, Introduction to Fine Arts, General Sociology, and American Democracy. In his career courses he may include courses in General Woodworking, General Metal Work, Craft and Hobby Work, Graphic Arts, and advanced work in wood and metal.

The general education courses of a student enrolled in a secretarial studies program may include Contemporary Economic Society, American Democracy, and other courses in the social sciences. Career courses under such a program may include

EARLY OHIO U. STUDENT WAS FIRST NATIVE GOVERNOR

An early student of law at Ohio University was to become the first native governor of the state of Ohio, subsequently elected to Congress, and later appointed governor of the Territory of Kansas. He also served a brief appointment as minister to Mexico.

Wilson Shannon, elected governor of his state in 1837 and again in 1842, came to Ohio University in 1820 and studied law two years. He then spent a year at Transylvania, culminating his law studies in the offices of a brother and other lawyers.

Shannon was born at Mount Olivet, a small village in Belmont County near Barnesville, in 1803—just one year before the founding of the University where he was to receive his early education for the law profession.

Shannon's climb to glory was precluded by a defeat for Congress in 1832, but after that his political ascent was steady. Coming from a family of successful lawyers and politicians, he added prestige to his heritage.

But Shannon's Ohio career began to collapse in the early 1850's, and he gladly accepted a presidential appointment to Kansas. He reportedly handled the turbulent territory skillfully, but resigned in 1857. During his ensuing private practice as a lawyer in Kansas, he became esteemed and loved, his biographers report. He

UNIVERSITY ANNOUNCES NEW STUDENT LOAN FUNDS

Two new student loan funds have been established at the University.

The G. Franklin White Student Loan Fund of $1,000 was provided by the will of the late Dr. G. Franklin White, '01. Loans from this fund are granted to juniors and seniors at an interest rate of five percent, with preference given to students preparing to teach and to premedical students. The grant also gives preference to residents of Ohio, although non-residents are not barred. Borrowers are required to have a scholastic average of C (2.0) or better.

Dr. White, a native of Hooksburg, was senior pathologist of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, U. S. Department of Agriculture, at the time of his death in 1937. He joined the Department of Agriculture in 1906. He received his Ph.D. from Cornell in 1905 and his M.D. from George Washington University in 1909. Similar student loan funds were established at both those schools by Dr. White's will.

The Lakewood Mothers' Club Loan Fund has been established by the Ohio University Mothers' Club of Lakewood. The fund provides $100 to be used as an emergency loan fund for students whose homes are in Lakewood, Rocky River, or Bay Village. Any amount up to $10 may be borrowed for one month's time. A fee of 25 cents is charged for each loan.

GENE CHUFAR, Canton sophomore, placed second in the statewide extemporaneous speaking contest held at Ohio Wesleyan, and Tad Danielewski, a senior foreign student from Poland, entered the finals in the oratorical contest with his speech on "A Way of Life Called Democracy." Robert Wilson, '49, last year went to the national contest.

died in Lawrence, Kansas, in 1877 and is buried there.

Ohio honors her own, however, and last summer Governor Lausche was the principal speaker at ceremonies in memory of Wilson Shannon. With several Shannons from Belmont County in attendance, a bronze plaque, set in a native boulder, was unveiled on the grounds of Mount Olivet school, a lasting, if belated, tribute to Ohio's first native governor.

NEW YORK CENTRAL NAMES OHIOAN TO HIGH POSITION

Dwight A. Fawcett, '13, 2-yr., was recently named assistant vice president, New York Central System lines west of Buffalo, with headquarters at LaSalle Street Station, Chicago.

Mr. Fawcett joined the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago, and St. Louis Ry. (now the Big Four Division of the New York Central) as a clerk in 1908. He has held a variety of positions and duties within the system, and in 1939 he was appointed assistant superintendent of the Ohio Division.

Promotions came steadily, and in 1942 he became superintendent of the Ohio Division; in 1944, assistant to the general manager of the Big Four Division; in 1945, assistant general manager at Indianapolis; in 1946, manager of freight transportation, with headquarters in New York City. Prior to his newest position, he was, since 1947, general manager of the New York Central at Cincinnati, with jurisdiction over the Big Four, the Peoria & Eastern Railway, and the Louisville & Jeffersonville Bridge & Railroad.

Mr. Fawcett, a native of Rushsylvania, is married to the former Hazel Winter, '16x, of Crooksville.

NEWEST CAMPUS groups are Alpha Delta Omega social fraternity and Ohio University Society of Mechanical Engineers.

A June Reunion Class

Of the nine original members of the Golden Anniversary class, only three are now known to be living. They are: MABLE Z. WILSON, Bellingham, Wash.; CHARLES M. MATHENY, Dallas, Texas; and THOMAS H. SHELDON, Gilroy, Calif. The known dead are: C. ROY CLINE, HARRY R. BAHRMAN, LAURA M. HASTINGS, and ROCHESTER IRWIN. Word was received only this month of the death, in 1947, of Mr. Irwin. When last heard from in 1917, WILLIAM I. CRANE was a professional writer living in Richmond Hill, L. I., N. Y. The other "missing person," with whom contact was lost in 1924, is Mrs. Martin H. Pugh (ARWILLA MACLANE) who was then a resident of Brownsville, Texas. Any reader having knowledge of the present whereabouts of Mrs. Pugh or Mr. Crane is asked to communicate the information at once to the Alumni Office.

A June Reunion Class

The local representatives of the Class of 1905 are THOMAS N. HOOVER, professor emeritus of history, and JOSHUA R. MORTON, professor emeritus of chemistry, who hope to welcome classmates at the campus reunion on June 10 and 11. Four members of the original graduating group of 11 persons have died during the intervening years. These are HARRY L. CONNETT, ALBERT J. JONES, MRS. HELEN REINHERR COPPLAND, and GEORGE W. TOOILL. Members for whom present addresses are uncertain are T. K. DEVAULT and JAMES O. WRIGHT, JR. The others, with known addresses, are: Mrs. J. J. Stout (JOSEPHINE CALDWELL), Dayton; CLIFFORD E. CORNWELL, Charleston, West Va.; and DR. CYRUS D. HIGGINS, Toledo.

DR. MARY B. TREUDLEY, professor of sociology at Wellesley College and daughter of the late Dr. Frederick Treudley, for many years a professor of philosophy at Ohio University, has recently completed a "History of Hiram College," an Ohio school in which both she and her father once taught. Miss Treudley taught in Girling College, Nankin, China, in the early 20's and again in 1946-47.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Mondhank (ETTA MOWERY, 2-yr), of Lancaster, have spent the winter in San Antonio and Brownsville, Texas. Last September they enjoyed a three-week trip to Glacier and Yellowstone National Parks and to the Black Hills and Bad Lands of South Dakota.

DR. J. A. MYERS, B.S. '12, M.S. '13, professor of preventive medicine at the University of Minnesota and an internationally-known authority in his field, is chairman of the Board of Editors of the Journal-Lancet. Dr. Myers, who has headed several national organizations, is currently president of the American Association of Chest Physicians and is a former president of the American Public Health Association, the American Academy of Tuberculosis Physicians and the National Tuberculosis Association. The Journal-Lancet is the official publication of about a dozen professional societies, including the American College Health Association. The November, 1948 issue of the Journal contained an article, "Reactions of University Students to Tuberculin and Histoplasmin Tests," written by Dr. E. The magazine section of a Columbus newspaper gave considerable space on February 19 to the results of a study by DR. CLARENCE H. GROWDEN, research director of the State Bureau of Juvenile Research, confirming his belief that "Delinquency Begins at Home." The study was based on the records of 500 children involved in delinquency which were taken up consecutively as they appeared in the admission records of the bureau. "The determination of the factors which actually function to lead the child into delinquency is a difficult task," reported the research director. "Only by the completed study of the child by a variety of different approaches can reliable deductions be made. One must know the social history, mental characteristics, physical condition and handicaps, educational abilities and opportunities, and the prevailing attitudes and peculiar habits of each child before any very reliable analysis of the causes of his delinquency can be stated."

Dr. Roseberry Rowles, a resident of New Matamoras, who practiced medicine in his area for 52 years and who was recently honored by the Ohio State Medical Association with membership in its 50-Year Club, died late in February at the age of 84. The octogenarian was the father of EMMETT ROWLES, associate professor of physiology at Ohio University, and his twin brother and classmate, DR. EVERETT ROWLES, a surgeon living in Colerain, Minn.

DR. W. T. SPRAGUE, former Athens physician, died January 12 at his home in Van Nuys, Calif., after an illness of several months. Surviving are his wife and three children. The latter are DR. GERALD T. SPRAGUE, '20, Van Nuys; Mrs. Harry C. Snyder (MARIAN SPRAGUE, '27x), Blanchester; and ALLEN D. SPRAGUE, '19x, Santa Rosa, Calif.

Present on February 21 for the celebration of their parents' Golden Wedding Anniversary at the parental home at Mineral, near Athens, were WILBUR E. EMISH of Dallas, Texas, and CHARLES F. EMISH, '36, of Poland, Ohio. With Proctor & Gamble for many years in Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis and Dallas, Wilbur is now an industrial engineer with Vultee Consolidated Aircraft at its Ft. Worth plant. Charles is a metallurgist for the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company.

Mrs. Earl Strong (VIOLET RITENOUR, 2-yr.), and her family have recently moved to a little "Cape Cod" home in the country, near Wilbraham, Mass. "My only son," she reports, "will be ready for college next year, but he seems to want to go to a school here in New England. I seem to have fallen down on interesting him in Ohio University. We love living here, but Ohio will always have first place in our hearts."

At its annual convention in Milwaukee last September, BENJAMIN H. CRUMP, was elected president of the Institute of Newspaper Comptrollers and Finance Officers, an organization with some 300 members. Mr. Crump has been identified with newspapers in Nashville, Tenn., since 1929; first with the Nashville Tennessean, and then as comptroller of the Newspaper Printing Corporation since 1944. For five years he was a lecturer in accounting at the Andrew Jackson Business College. He is a certified public accountant and a member of the American Institute of Accountants. Five of his 24 years of corporation accounting were devoted to bank, real estate, and hotel companies, the rest to newspapers.

LAURENCE D. KELLER, a member of a prominent Columbus accounting firm, was recently elected potentate of the Aladdin Temple of Shriners in Columbus. One of six in Ohio, Aladdin Temple has under its jurisdiction the central and southeastern sections of the state. The holder of this high Masonic post is the husband of the former ELMA DULANEY, '20, and father of ELAINE KELLER, an Ohio U. senior.

DON W. BLUNDELL, son of DONALD T. BLUNDELL, '23, 2-yr., and Mrs. Blundell

(IDA MAE WALTHOUR, '24, 2-yr.), Cuyahoga Falls, was one of the 244 new students who entered Ohio University at the beginning of the second semester of the current school year. Don plans to be a civil engineer like his dad, who is associated with the Thorp Construction Co., in Akron.

DR. W. A. KINCAID, superintendent of the Hempstead, N. Y., public schools, is the recipient of an award by the local Brotherhood Committee of the National Conference of Christians and Jews for the most outstanding contribution of the year. The national organization is made up of representatives of the Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish faiths.

WALTER P. PORTER, a veteran science teacher in Athens High School, was honored recently with a gift of appreciation for his twenty-three years as leader of the Hi-Y group. He was succeeded in the advisory capacity last month by EARL WASHBURN, '32, instructor in chemistry.

1925

A June Reunion Class

The officers of the Class of 1925 in its senior year were: RUSSELL D. TUBAUGH, now of Cleveland Heights, president; EDWARD "DUTCH" JENNINGS, Boston, Mass., vice president; MABEL E. BROWN, now Mrs. George Cooke, of Kent, secretary; and MAYNARD L. GRAFT, Cleveland, treasurer. Members still living in Athens are SAMUEL B. ERSKINE, DR. CARL A. FREY, Mrs. Joseph Trepp (JEAN GIST), DEWEY M. GODDARD, WILLIAM H. HERBERT, WILSON K. SMITH, and LAWRENCE G. WORSTELL.

EDITH E. HUMPHREY, director of dramatics at Sullins College, Bristol, Va. for several years, was forced to resign from her position last year and return to her home in Hockingport, on the Ohio River, to assist in the care of her parents who are ill. One of Miss Humphrey's more notable accomplishments at the southern girls' school was the establishment of the Sullins College Repertory Theatre for Children. It was staffed by undergraduates who took their productions to all of the grade schools in the area and to many mountain communities within a 60-mile radius.

ARTHUR E. CAMERON, a former Athens insurance man who went to California in 1935, where he soon established his own business in Palo Alto as a special agent for the New York Life Insurance Company, has recently changed business addresses. His offices are now located in the Thoits Building, 172 University Avenue, Palo Alto. Associated with him is his father, CHARLES E. CAMERON, '97, 2-yr., a former Athenian and for many years a leading insurance and real estate broker here.

1928

SIMEON R. EARICH (see picture) is the new president of the Ohio Association of Track Coaches. Mr. Earich, principal of the Bolindale School, near Warren, and has been teaching and coaching in Trumbull County schools for more than twenty years. The O.A.T.C. is composed of 482 members. The seven-man advisory board includes CLIFFORD R. GLAZIER, '23, Marietta; ARTHUR W. HENDRICKS, '31, Clyde; and JAMES C. JOHNSON, '38, head track coach at Ohio University. Other members on the board are George Gauthier, Ohio Wesleyan athletic director; George L. Rider, Miami University track coach; and high school coaches in Newark and Sandusky. President Earich is a one-time All-Ohio basketball star at Ohio University. A son, Roderic, is now attending the father's alma mater.

LEE S. ROACH, A.B. '29, A.M. '31, who has been assistant chief of the Fish Management Section of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, is now first assistant chief of the department's Wildlife Division. Until a successor is named to H. A. "Buck" Rider, recently resigned, Mr. Roach will serve as acting chief of the division.

Kent State's wrestlers, under COACH JOE BEGALA, former Ohio U. wrestling star and gridiron lineman, have just completed their fourth straight season without a loss. To prove that he is still fit, Coach Joe recently "rassled" one of his varsity grapplers on a booster program at his school. The Kent State coach, a protégé of Ohio's veteran Thor Olson, once wrestled professionally under the name of Joe Butler.

THOMAS G. SLATER, ex (see picture) has been elected a vice-president of Ruthrauff & Ryan, Inc., one of New York's leading advertising and public relations agencies. He will handle U. S. radio network relations and program and talent development, as well as Canadian radio operations. He has had 16 years of radio experience in producing, performing and executive capacities. He was formerly director of special events and sports for the Mutual network. He was in charge of the Friendship Train for the Citizens' Food Committee, and received the National Headliner Award for Radio's Outstanding Special Events Broadcast in 1946. He has been the recipient of the Radio Daily Award, the Treasury Department Silver Award for patriotic service, and the King Haakon Liberation Medal for wartime assistance to the Norwegian government. Born in Parkersburg, W. Va., he now lives in Manhasset, N. Y.

Mrs. Elmer D. West (DOROTHY BARTON), of Pittsburgh is province president of her sorority, Kappa Delta. Under her supervision are chapters at Westminster Penn State, Bethany, Bucknell, and the University of Pennsylvania. During the past 27 years these chapters have contributed a total of $80,000 to a national fund for crippled children. Her husband, DR. ELMER D. WEST, '30, is program director of the American Institute for Research and a lecturer in psychology at the University of Pittsburgh.

FRED S. BLAETTNER, a prominent automobile dealer in Pomeroy and a member of one of Meigs County's pioneer families, has presented to the Edwin Watts Chubb Library a copy of the recently published "Pioneer History of Meigs County," a volume written and compiled by Judge Edgar Ervin. Mr. Blaettner is active, with Supt. W. A. SMITH, '29, of the Pomeroy schools, and others, in the movement to reorganize the Meigs County chapter of the Ohio University Alumni Association.

Virginia Miracle, daughter of IVAN S. MIRACLE, assistant director of Ohio U's branch at Zanesville, is one of three students to be awarded scholarships at Ohio University for the coming fall semester. At present attending the Zanesville branch, Miss Miracle held the top scholastic rating in a class of 321 upon graduation from Zanesville's Lash High School. She was also valedictorian of her ninth grade graduating class, served as vice president of the Student Senate, and was active in a half dozen other school organizations and activities.

1933

HENRY J. "HANK" ANDREWS, ex, described as "a fisherman's fisherman who knows the woods and fields of Ohio as well as he does his own back yard," has been named outdoors editor of The Cleveland Press. He was formerly assistant sports editor of the Cleveland daily. The veteran newspaper man attended Ohio University two years, 1929-1931. In 1941 and 1942 he toured the nation's Army and Navy posts, sending back word through the pages of his paper on how Cleveland boys were getting along in the service. He then joined the Air Force as a private and after three years in England and Germany returned home with the rank of captain.

ENID PARRITT home service representative for the Ohio Fuel Gas Company, in Columbus, conducted a cooking school for the local division of her company, in Athens, which was largely attended. The school was held in the auditorium of Athens High School.

1934

MAYO B. ILES, B.S.Ed. '34, A.M. '42, a teacher in Hocking County schools for the past 36 years and currently teaching at Logan High School, is a candidate for representative of his county in the Republican primaries on May 2. His graduate work was done in the field of history and government and his thesis was based on parliamentary procedures as revealed by the Congressional Record. Mr. Iles was at one time city safety-service director on the Hocking County Welfare Board. For 15 years he was commissioner of Boy Scouts for his county and has been active in other civic affairs.

THOMAS G. SLATER

Mrs. Kenneth I. Little (LOIS BENTON, 2-yr.), taught in the Fayette County schools for 10 1/2 years following receipt of her diploma in Elementary Education. Since the death of her husband in 1947, she has conducted the insurance agency established by Mr. Little before his death.

A June Reunion Class

RALPH W. ARNOLD, A.B. '35, A.M. '41, head of the Speech Department at Muskingum College, is secretary of the Ohio Association of College Teachers of Speech. The annual meeting of the O.A.T.S. will be held in Columbus, April 14 and 15, in connection with the annual conference of the Central States Speech Association.

A Navy promotion has just brought LIEUT. COMDR. CHILFORD H. SELDEN, JR., to the staff of Rear Admiral Jerold Wright as assistant operations officer. Commander Selden is at present aboard the U. S. S. Taconic. His wife and two daughters reside in Norfolk, Va.

HOMER C. "MOE" DORMAN, has succeeded DEAN GEORGE W. STARCHER, '26, as president of the Athens Rotary Club. President Dorman, active in business and civic affairs, is associated with Athens Motor Sales and the Dorman-Householder Oil Company. His wife is the former RUTH CONE, '33.

1936

ARTHUR E. LEWIS assumed duties as

MR. AND MRS. DAN GRIGG AND SHARON

head coach of football at West Virginia University on March 1. He came to the "Mountaineer" school from Mississippi State College where he coached last year. He is said to have been one of some 25 gridiron coaches who applied for the W.V.U. job recently vacated by Dudley DeGroot. As a tackle at Ohio U., where he captained both the '34 and '35 Bobcat grid teams, Art won "little All-America" honors. After graduation he played pro football with the New York Giants, but returned to his alma mater in 1934 as line coach. The following year he joined the Cleveland Rams as a player and line coach. Following a period of war service in the Navy, the Ohio grad accepted the head coaching job at Washington and Lee University, going from there to Mississippi State last year.

FOREST HOPKINS, editor and publisher of the North East Breeze in North East, Pa., and owner of two other newspapers in New York state, the Ripley Review and the Fredonia Censor, was proclaimed North East's "Man of the Year" at a civic dinner sponsored recently by the members of the Brotherhood of St. Joseph in the Pennsylvania community. As a climax of the evening's program, Editor Hopkins' newspaper colleagues delivered a special edition of The Breeze which contained a picture and story of the dinner which was still in progress.

Besides being a newspaper publisher, Mr. Hopkins is owner of the Hotel Concord.

THOMAS R. HAYS, who has been with the R.C.A. Manufacturing Company since graduation, is now an R.C.A. sales representative in Chicago.

Anna Rae Clark is a teacher in the Campbell School in Kansas City, Kans. She is a sister of Mrs. Edward N. Wise (RUTH CLARKE) of Los Alamos, N. Mex.

DR. WADE VOLWILER, ex, son of Dr. A. T. Volwiler, professor of history at Ohio U., and Mrs. Volwiler, was one of 20 medical scientists named to benefit from a grant from the John and Mary R. Markle Foundation under the Markle Program. Now in its third year, 38 doctors will be aided with grants amounting to $1,200,000. The sum of $500,000 has been appropriated for support of the last 20 selectees, to be allowed in grants of $25,000 at the rate of $5,000 a year to the medical schools in which they hold faculty appointments. The money is to be used "for the support of outstanding young scientists who have chosen academic medicine in preference to practice or research in industrial laboratories. The purpose is to afford them academic and financial security to develop at their own pace." Dr. Volwiler is now a member of the faculty of the University of Washington School of Medicine at Seattle, where his specialty is internal medicine, particularly as it concerns diseases of the liver.

Pulpit duties are not all that engage the time and attention of the REV. EDWARD W. W. LEWIS, B.S. '38, A.M. '41, minister of the Central Park Baptist Church in New York City, and a brother of ARTHUR LEWIS (see Class of 1936 notes). The New Yorker is in frequent demand as a commencement speaker and guest minister. Last year he spoke or preached in Chicago, Butte, Mont., Tacoma, Wash., San Francisco, Los Angeles, Texarkana, Texas, Memphis, and Atlanta, as well as at points nearer home in New York and Massachusetts.

FORREST L. BACHTEL, M.Ed., received convincing evidence recently of the high regard in which he is held by his many friends in the "Pomeroy Bend" area of Ohio. Following his announcement of retirement from coaching duties at Middleport High School, Mr. Bachtel was given an appreciation dinner, a new automobile, and a life-size oil portrait of himself. At the same time, it was announced that the football stadium at Mason City, West Virginia, where he once coached, would be renamed Bachtel Stadium. Mr. Bachtel, one of the most successful coaches in Southeastern Ohio will continue his teaching in Middleport. The twin cities of Pomeroy and Middleport are located in a big bend in the Ohio River, hence the name of the area.

On March 1, W. J. "BILL" COONEY was transferred by the Borden Company from Columbus to Tampa, Florida, where, as a member of the General Auditor's Department, he will audit the books of all of the Borden plants in Florida and some of them in Georgia and Alabama. "Needless to say," he writes, "my wife and two little girls are enjoying the nice weather here. We expect to locate permanently in Tampa and have sold our home in Columbus."

W. PARKER WALKER, an Athens attorney, has resigned from the Athens City School Board to become city solicitor. He was succeeded in the school board position by JAMES E. HOUSEHOLDER, '29,

MR. AND MRS. DELBERT M. ZOERB
(See "Marriages")

a former member of the Ohio U. staff and now a local automobile dealer.

1940

ARTHUR W. SHERMAN, JR., will return to the Ohio University campus and faculty next fall as an instructor in psychology. He has spent the past two years in graduate work and teaching at Ohio State University. Reference was made to one of his research studies at Ohio University in a syndicated cartoon strip bearing the title "Let's Explore Your Mind" appearing, in the instance brought to the editor's attention, in the December 4th issue of the Washington Post. Mr. Sherman found that "among 504 Ohio University women those who phoned home frequently 'just to hear their parents' voices,' had more friends on the average than the others." He suggests, according to the news item, that these students may be dependent, clinging vines who want friends to play the role of parents. If so, sociability and making friends may sometimes be a sign of lack of grownupness and emotional immaturity instead of the opposite, as always assumed.

BRUCE BLAKE, a staff announcer for Akron's Radio Station WHKK became acting program director on April 1. Bruce is not only known on his station's air line as an announcer, but has gained attention through appearances with little theatre groups.

CAPT. JACK D. PRITCHARD, who has been stationed with the U. S. Army in Vienna for the last three and one-half years, will return to the States in mid-April for assignment to duty in this country. Captain Pritchard will be accompanied home by Mrs. Pritchard (BETTY GREENE, '43) and their daughter, Charlene, who joined him in Germany three years ago.

1941

THE REV. ALAN M. PETERSON, who graduated from the McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago a year ago,

ROBERT E. HOLMES

is serving a dual pastorate at the McNair Memorial Presbyterian Church in Washington C. H. and at the Presbyterian Church in Bloomingburg.

RICHARD J. GIBBS is manager of Dover Motor Sales, a family partnership in Dover. He and Mrs. Gibbs (JANE DRESSEL, '42) have two little girls, Betsy, 7, and Ladema Jane, 2½.

LENA C. ADAMS has had an interesting career since leaving the Ohio University campus. After teaching music in the schools of her home city, Dayton, Miss Adams served as lieutenant in the Women's Army Corps for three years and then enrolled at the University of Oklahoma to pursue studies for an M.A. degree in personnel work. She acquired her degree in August, 1948, and that fall went to Cheney, Wash., as executive secretary and counselor in the office of the Dean of Women of the East Washington College of Education, a position which she still holds. Miss Adams spent the summer of 1949 in Italy visiting her father's family, of which five sisters and two brothers live on the island of Sicily. She concludes her communication to the Alumni Office with a declaration that "the Pacific Northwest is truly beautiful country."

"I am delighted," writes Mrs. George Cayrich (LAURA STERNBERG), Brooklyn,

N. Y., "that Ohio U. has finally issued recordings of songs which bring back many memories. My son, Guy, who is three and a half years old, is pleased, also, as his favorite song is 'Goodbye My Old Ohio Baby'. I cut an inexpensive record of my singing of this song. It frightens me, but Guy thinks its tops."

The editor of The Alumnus wishes he could publish all of the pictures of Ohioans, their wives, husbands, and offspring that come to hand but space and the engraving budget, unfortunately, will not permit. Reproduced on page 18, however, is the Daniel N. Grigg family—Dan, Suzanne and year-old Sharon of Mitchell, S. D. Pater Grigg is manager of the Dan Grigg Enterprise Co. Mrs. Grigg is the former SUZANNE WRIGHT of Mamaroneck, N. Y.

Tired of traveling and ready "to settle down," PAUL W. WOODS (formerly Wodarsky), with Mrs. Woods, has just moved into a new U-shaped redwood ranch-style home in Walnut Creek, California. Paul passed a federal Civil Service examination in January and as a result is now an auditor for the United States Army Audit Agency at Ft. Mason. He was granted a C.P.A. certificate in Ohio in 1948 and in California last month.

After spending two years as a dietitian in the Army and a year visiting friends and seeing the country, CAROLYN G. BURTON has accepted a position as a dietitian at City Hospital in Akron.

HEAD BASEBALL COACH ROBERT WREN and Football Coaches Carroll Widdoes and Howard Brinker, of the Ohio U. athletic staff, attended the annual sessions of the National Collegiate Athletic Association in New York City early in January. Coach Wren led a clinic session devoted to a discussion of pitching and participated in other discussions dealing with the diamond sport.

ROBERT C. HOLMES (see picture), who graduated from the Ohio State University law school a year ago and successfully passed the bar examination last June, is now associated with the law firm of Holmes, Holmes, and Holmes in Columbus. Looks as though the law is in the Holmes blood. Success to you, Barrister Holmes.

DON M. COMPTON is an attorney at law with offices in the Winters National Bank Building in Dayton. He graduated from the University of Cincinnati Law School in May, 1949. Mrs. Compton, who was MARTHA FISHER, '44, received a Master of Science degree in bacteriology at Ohio State University in 1945.

Holder of a C.P.A. certificate, highest professional recognition in the field of accounting, BRUCE MATTHEWS is a senior accountant in Detroit, with Arthur Andersen & Company, an accounting firm with offices in many of the nation's leading cities.

Formerly a teacher in the Miamisburg schools, EDITH MERCER is now teaching commercial subjects in the high school at New Vienna.

After acquiring a master's degree at Ohio University last year ROLAND O. BYERS, B.S.Ed., '46, M.S., '49 (see picture) became head of the engineering drawing department at the University of Wichita, Kansas. He was an 18th Air Force captain during the war, with 43 bombing missions to his credit.

Sought for a number of interesting

ROLAND O. BYERS

positions, RUTH O. GENTRY has just accepted a position with the Second Presbyterian Church of Newark as director of Christian Education. For the past three years, she has been a junior executive of the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., in Philadelphia.

R. KENNETH KERR, JR., ex, manager of the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company in Athens was elected president of the Ohio Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages Association at the 38th annual meeting of the organization this spring. Kenny's dad, publisher of the Lancaster Eagle-Gazette was recently elected president of the Ohio Newspaper Publishers Association.

SHIRLEY K. WEBSTER has been with Baltimore, Maryland's 50,000-watt radio station WBAL and companion station WBAL-TV as music librarian for more than two years. She has charge of all musical programs going out over both the AM and TV air waves. An outstanding vocalist in her campus days, Miss Webster has appeared as guest artist on several TV programs and "emcees" a Teen Age Quiz Program which is given a simultaneous AM and TV airing each Sunday night.

ALAN A. BARNHILL was elected first vice president of the Midwestern Ohio Industrial Arts Association at its meeting in Toledo last month. Mr. Barnhill is head of the industrial arts department of South High School in Lima.

WILLIAM R. HESS, football coach and instructor at Grandview Heights, a Columbus suburb, has been signed to a three-year contract as gridiron coach at Portsmouth at a salary of $4200 a year. A lineman on Bobcat grid teams, Bill enjoyed a successful season at Grandview last fall, winning 8 games, tying 1, and suffering no defeats. In Portsmouth he will be serving under Superintendent H. W. McKELVEY, '27.

RICHARD W. BASHEIN

Robert C. Ellis, who completed a year's intensive work in the Portuguese language, and in study and training in the practices and techniques of foreign commerce, at the American Institute for Foreign Trade, and who later joined the Foreign Trade Department of the National City Bank of New York, has accepted an assignment to San Juan, Puerto Rico. He and Mrs. Ellis (ELIZABETHANN SCHULTZ, '48) will be going to the Central American post in June.

DESMOND L. COOK assistant professor of psychology at Arkansas State College has been elected an associate member of the American Psychological Association and initiated into Psi Gamma Mu, social science honorary.

R. WILLIAM BASHEIN (see picture), a practicing attorney in Cleveland, is a candidate for State Representative from Cuyahoga County in the Democratic primaries next month. Naturally, he will welcome the support of as many Ohio U. graduates in his county as find themselves free to vote for him.

On December 27, following resignation from her position as a service representative of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company, JULIA ADAM flew to Los Angeles where she is now associated with the Progressive Personnel Employment Agency as a personnel counselor.

MAXON U. DAVIS is engaged in promotional work for the Wm. S. Merrell Company, ethical drug division of The Vick Chemical Company and living in Valley Stream on Long Island. His company has offices on East 42nd Street in Gotham.

JOYCE M. BRYANT is studying music at Syracuse University, commuting 25 miles daily between her home in Auburn, N. Y., and the university at Syracuse. In pursuit of an M.A. degree in musicology, she is playing a flute in the university symphony orchestra and is also a member of an orchestra in her home city.

After completing a two-year field training program with the Ford Motor Company during which he had experience in all staff operating activities, WILLIAM E. MADDOX is now assistant zone sales manager for the Ford company in Houston, Texas.

CLAYTON E. FERRELL is teaching this year at Millin High School in Franklin County after spending last year in graduate work at Ohio State University. Until a brain tumor operation forced her to give up her work, Mrs. Ferrell (RHEA WENDELKEN, '44) served as assistant to the registrar at Ohio State University.

DONALD H. SCHUSTER (see picture) is pursuing work on a doctorate in biophysics at the University of Minnesota, working under an Atomic Energy Commission Fellowship.

ROBERT SANDLER, who graduated with high honor as a major in English, is now a graduate assistant in the Department of English at Ohio University.

JOAN CROSS is a member of the market research staff of the Proctor & Gamble Company at the main office in Cincinnati. She writes, "I hear the campus has changed a lot. It would be nice for the graduates if it could be kept as we remember it, but our children might not appreciate the crowded Grill or the creaks of Ellis Hall."

A recognition which reflects credit both upon himself and his pre-medical training at Ohio U. has come to PAUL J. ANDERSON. Modestly, he reports that "my activities at the University of Chicago Medical School are hardly auspicious—I continue in the pattern of the traditional medical student, slowly progressing through an intricate maze of classes, textbooks, laboratories and clinics." The Ohio U. man, nevertheless, was elected president of the freshman class of the University of Chicago Medical School.

The Philo "Electrics" coached by ROBERT D. DICKEY lost, by one point in the district tournament at Athens, an opportunity to enter the state basketball finals at Columbus last month. With an Atlas-like feeling, the outcome of the game on his shoulders, one of Coach Dickey's players failed to make good on a foul shot in the closing seconds of the pay-off game of the regional tournament at Athens. A successful toss would have meant at least a tie and an overtime period, with a chance for ultimate victory. In winning 25 out of 28 games during the past season, Bob's boys made good on 39 per cent of their field goal tries and 52 per cent of their free throws.

By court order, the name of CARL F. CAHLIK has been changed to CARL C. FREDERICK, a form which will be used in all future references to this recent graduate. Carl says that "Frederick is easier to spell, read, and pronounce than Cahlik, and is a family name." He is manager of Smart's Music Shop in Mansfield. Mrs. Frederick is the former ELIZABETH SMART, '47.

DONALD H. SCHUSTER

NANCY TROUP has resigned her position as home service director for the Central Ohio Light and Power Co. in Findlay and is now a district home economist for the International Harvester Co., with headquarters in Toledo. She is one of 91 home economists in the United States employed by International Harvester. Her district includes 27 counties—21 in northern Ohio and 6 in lower Michigan. She hopes to see many Ohio University friends around Cleveland, Akron, Detroit, and Jackson, Mich. Miss Troup is "very enthusiastic" about her new work and states that there is a great demand for girls with a degree in home economics.

Among the February graduates who have accepted teaching positions or who have been engaged in teaching during the past year, graduating in absentia, are the following: MRS. LEOLA W. CUBBAGE, principal, Elementary School, Mason, W. Va.; MARJORIE CARR, Belle Valley; LOIS COOPER, Lorain; JOHN F. DOYLE, Struthers; WILMA EVANS, Oyster School, Cincinnati; MILDRED F. PEDEN, Mayfield School, Middletown; MRS. RUTH MORRISON PIERCE, Central School, Athens; and FRANCES E. SUMPTION, Indianola School, Columbus.

VIRGINIA GLOVER, '42 (see picture on page 17), Youngstown, editorial staff member, Youngstown Vindicator, to DELBERT M. ZOERB, Wilkensburg, Pa., department manager with Armour & Co. (Youngstown), July 1, 1949. At home: 295 Park Ave., Youngstown.

H. DOUGLAS STRICKLAND, '48, (see picture), Memphis, Tenn., to LEONARD C. "DUKE" BITLER, '48, Lakewood, service engineer, Ohio Bell Telephone Co. (Cleve-
